

The Joshua Highwarden
House was built in 1888
by local boat builder
turned architect H.B Lovejoy. A fire that broke out in the Highwarden woodshed a few years after construction (1893) took out the shed and barn on the property, but the house was saved.

The neighboring Methodist church was not as lucky. It burned to the ground. The church that stands today was built by H.B. Lovejoy after the fire.
